

Social and Personal.

The parlors of the Woman's College were brilliantly lighted and beautifully decorated last evening from 8 to 11 o'clock in honor of the reception held by the class of 1904.

Thames, Southern smilax, golden hued tulips and white and gold anemone-like flowers displayed the class and college colors. An orchestra played a number of lovely selections during reception hours, and the young hostesses of the occasion acquitted themselves with marked grace and distinction.

Those receiving were, Miss Lily Madeline Jackson, in a lovely toilet of champagne colored crepe de chine with a garniture of cerise lace; Miss Emma Fipp Sherman, in ivory white chiffon cloth; Miss Isabel Lavinia Walker, violet crepe de chine; Miss Mary Carlisle Cannady, in cream; Miss Emma Fipp Sherman, in white silk; Miss Emma Clark, in white chiffon with point lace; Miss Mary Burnley Gwathmey, in white crepe jacqueline; and Miss Ophelia Louise Harris, in white Schellene.

Miss Martin Forbes, the lady principal of the college, in champagne voile, cream lace and puffed velvet, and Miss Mary Carter Anderson, in cream voile with Persian embroidery, assisted the members of the class in doing the honors of the hour.

Other members of the graduating class are Miss May Redman Anderson, Miss Linda Fairfax Anderson, Miss Eva Garnett Armstrong, Miss Macon E. Barnes, Miss Margaret Belle Davis, Miss Ellen Hodgson, Miss Ruth A. Hart, Miss Lucy S. Lynn, Miss Edith P. McCarthy, Miss Madge G. Montgomery, Miss J. Louise Parker, Miss Bessie C. Palmer, Miss Eva A. Pollard, Miss Lottie A. Redford, Miss Hattie B. Smith, Miss Mattie C. Spencer, Miss Maude Hutcheson Starke, Miss Selome Stiff, Miss May Muriel Shepherd, Miss Ethel V. Williamson, Miss Mary T. Whitsett, Miss Bettie H. Winfree, Miss Tallulah Calne.

Refreshments were served by a charming levy of undergraduates. Miss Lucy Saunders, Miss Katherine Nottingham, Miss Renny Buxton, Miss Myra Ackles, Miss Lizzie Lawless, Miss Frankie Smith, Miss Alice Merritt and Miss Hilly Council.

A steady stream of callers poured in to pay their respects to the prospective "sweet girl graduates." The hum of conversation, the soft strains of music, the gay laughter and merry interchanges of bedtime, and the most agreeable and attractive one. The class members thoroughly enjoyed their little plunge into social life and the privileges and prerogatives that belonged especially to them, as the centers of observation and interest.

They realized that academic honors and college life bring in their train many pleasures, which blossom into full maturity during graduating year and bore themselves accordingly. The reception to them was important as the first of the series of class celebrations, the last of which will come in June next, when the most successful students don the cap and gown, and are entitled to write their names with a college degree tucked after them.

The Presiding Officer.
Under the above title Mrs. Florence Murphy Cooley, of Alabama, who has been visiting Mrs. N. V. Randolph and who has proven herself one of the most active and efficient of the directors for the Davis Monument Association, has placed on sale at the Bell book and stationery store an attractively gotten-up little manual of parliamentary law, bound in Confederate gray, neatly lettered and embossed in red. The booklet is a convenient pocket edition and contains matter calculated to be of the greatest service to all who are interested in the organization or management of legislative bodies.

The Country Club.
Society with joyfully turned steps towards the Deep River Club house this afternoon, where tea will be served and the grounds and porticoes will be colorful with the appearance of belles in bright spring attire and huntresses who, having ridden and shot their best, are more than ready to turn to gentler occupations and to linger in club parlors for a cup of tea and an hour's converse with fair hostesses who extend a most graceful hospitality to their guests.

Continental Hall.
Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks reported at the Congress of Daughters of the American Revolution, held this week in Washington, D. C., that one-third of three hundred thousand dollars, necessary for the building of Continental Hall upon plans mapped out had already been raised. The architect, Edward P. Casey, whose father designed the Congressional Library, in Washington, submitted his plans to the National Society of Daughters last Tuesday, April 19th, the anniversary of the battle of Lexington. The site of Continental Hall, bought one year ago, is a lot in close proximity to the White House, Washington monument, Corcoran Art Gallery and the most fashionable thoroughfare.

Plans for the building show a three-story gray stone structure. The thirteen original States will be symbolized by thirteen columns. Other features of the building will be the spacious auditorium for annual conventions, rooms and offices for employees, who will have permanent quarters in the building, a hall for revolutionary relics and portraits, a handsome parlors library, reception rooms and parlors.

No. 165.
TEARS.
By ROBERT EARL OF LYTON.

Edward Robert Dulver Lyton, son of Lord Lyton, the novelist, an English poet and statesman, was born in London, Nov. 8, 1831, and died in Paris, Nov. 24, 1891. Educated at Harrow and at Bonn, Germany, he entered the diplomatic service in 1850 as British attaché at Washington, D. C., Florence, Paris, The Hague, St. Petersburg, Constantinople, Vienna, Madrid, Belgrade, etc. (1852-1891), charged d'affaires (1860-1861), ambassador to Portugal (1874), Mexico (1876-80), created earl of Lyton and ambassador to Paris (1887-91). He first wrote under the pseudonym of Owen Meredith, a novel, 1860, Lyton excelled as lyric, satirist, and narrative poet. In 1861 he published a translation of national songs of Serbia: "The Ring of Amadis," a prose romance, 1863; "Chonches and Chonches," the Fall of Time, a dramatic poem, 1865; "Fables in Song," 1874; "Poems," 1877; "Gleanings," 1885; "After Paradise, or Legends of Exile," 1887, etc.

HERE be three hundred different ways and more
Of speaking, but of weeping only one;
And that one way, the wide world o'er and o'er,
Is known by all, tho' it is taught by none.
No man is master of this ancient lore,
And no man pupil. Every simpleton
Can weep as well as every sage. The man
Does it no better than the infant can.

The first thing all men learn is how to speak,
Yet understand they not each other's speech;
But tears are neither Latin, nor yet Greek,
Nor prose, nor verse. The language that they teach
Is universal. Cleopatra's cheek
They decked with pearls no richer than from each
Of earth's innumerable mourners fall
Unstudied, yet correctly classical.

Tears are the oldest and the commonest
Of all things upon earth; and yet how new
The tale each time told by them! How unbeseech'd
Were life's hard way without their heavenly dew!
Joy borrows them from Grief; Faith trembles lost
She lose them; even Hope herself smiles thro'
The rainbow they make round her as they fall;
And Death, that cannot weep, sets weeping all.

SENDS OUT MEMORIALS

Southern Expresses Deep Appreciation of Late Messrs. Turk and Green.

PUTS ON FINE NEW TRAIN
Old Train of the R. F. and P.
Replaced by New Coaches
of Elegant Type.

It is rare that a great railway system has the duty of sending out a memorial of two prominent officials on the same card. The Southern Railway has just had that experience, its two dead officials being William Armstrong Turk, passenger traffic manager, and William Henry Green, assistant to the general manager. One of them died April 9th and the other just a week later. The memorial card sent out by the railway is handsomely eulogistic of the services of both men. It embraces a brief sketch of each, showing the advancement on their merits of both from humble and obscure positions to posts of honor and trust.

The Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac has just superseded the old coaches, comprising train 100, leaving here at 12:05 P. M., daily, by an entire train of new and modern cars of the most elegant type. The train, the fastest on the road, makes the trip to Washington from this city in just three hours and five minutes. The coaches are the name of comfort and elegance. Lavatories with fresh towels, improved plumbing and fixtures, automatic window and curtain fixtures, and comfortable seats are among the accessories of the new cars. A Pullman buffet car, wherein hot lunches can be had, is another desirable feature of the train. The train consists of three elegant thoroughfare coaches, the buffet and two sleepers. The train is one of the handsomest in service anywhere.

President Stevens, General Manager Doyle and various other officials, who have spent the entire week on a tour of the Chesapeake and Ohio lines, were at Cincinnati yesterday, and will arrive in Clifton Forge this morning.

They are expected home to-night. The inspection is one of those periodically made, and has no special significance.

George J. Lincoln, commercial agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, located in Philadelphia, was in the city yesterday, as was Mr. J. H. Hartwell, of New York, traveling passenger agent of the Atlantic Coast Line, and Traveling Passenger Agent Hicks, of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul.

Mr. H. S. Leard, district passenger agent of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, has returned from Hot Springs, Va., where he has been for several days on business.

General Passenger Agent C. B. Ryan, of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, was in the city yesterday, and visited the local offices of the company.

The Atlantic Coast Line Railway has gotten out a circular or folder in Spanish for circulation in Cuba, with which island the Coast Line is in direct communication.

Mr. E. J. Chisholm, general freight and passenger agent of the Chesapeake Steamship Company's York River line, and Mr. E. E. Foster, auditor of the same line, visited the local passenger offices of the Southern Railway yesterday.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway will inaugurate their popular Sunday Outings from this city to Old Point, Newport News and Norfolk on Sunday, May 1st. These trips will be continued every Sunday during the summer. The trains are among the best operated by the road, and attached to each is a luxury chair car, for which a small fee is charged. This season promises to eclipse all records in the patronage of these outings.

Captain C. W. Westbury, district passenger agent of the Southern Railway, yesterday returned to the city, having accompanied the Ogden special as far as Danville on its way to Atlanta and Birmingham.

Captain R. T. Adams has again completed arrangements with the Norfolk and Western Railway by which he will operate a popular Sunday trip to Norfolk, known as the Triby excursion. Beginning May 1st, the Sunday trips will be inaugurated and continued throughout the summer.

The Burlington Railway management is rushing work on its new Kansas City-St. Louis line with a view to have trains in operation by June 15th, in time for the volume of exposition travel. The maximum grade of the new line is twenty feet, and the line is built in the most substantial manner, and the finest equipment in the matter of rolling stock is being rushed to completion, so that the road will be ready for business at the date named.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway will operate its first special coach excursion, leaving this city May 24th, with tickets limited to ten days, for a tour of the State, which will take advantage of this first opportunity to attend the great exposition.

The Charlottesville Progress prints a rumor that Mr. S. H. Hardwick, general passenger agent of the Southern Railway, will probably be promoted to passenger traffic manager, to succeed the late William A. Turk. It is generally believed that Mr. Hardwick would be the man to succeed Mr. Turk, if a successor is chosen, but it is not considered likely that the office will be filled. It was created for Mr. Turk, and may be abolished.

of delegates by only one majority. Hearst obtained several delegates in towns where, one week ago, he did not have any followers. In the Twelfth District Hearst has a majority of delegates already selected, and if the Parker men fail to get all the delegates in Allen county, Hearst will get the two delegates from that district to the national convention.

HIS PULPITS ARE IN THE DINGY SALOONS
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WILKESBARRE, PA., April 22.—The Lackawanna Presbytery, in session here, was started and interested by a report concerning a minister who conducts his services in saloons.

He is the Rev. John Kalenskoff, a Russian, instructed to reach those Russians who have no church organization. He found that their chief gathering places were saloons, and there he goes on Saturday evenings and preaches to the people. He has large audiences. Ordering the sale of liquors stopped in the name of the Lord, he talks to the men for half an hour or so. He has always been given respectful attention, and has done much good, according to Dr. Logan, superintendent of the mission among the foreigners.

Animals as Tamed.
"Wild Animals I Have Tamed," by D. R. Hill, is a not his addition to current literature. The chapter on "The Treatment of the Tiger" shows the author in his most happy vein. If Mr. Hill will give the making of platforms and confine himself to animal lore he will interest, instruct and amuse—New York Herald.

FOR MR. MEREDITH AS A DELEGATE
Democrats Want Him to go to St. Louis—Governor for Braxton.

Since the fixing of the date for the meeting of the State Democratic Committee, there is considerable talk concerning the probable personnel of the Virginia delegation to St. Louis, and it has developed that the friends of Hon. Charles W. Meredith, of this city, are desirous that he shall go as one of the delegates from the Third District.

Mr. Meredith has not said whether or not he will allow the use of his name, but in case he should decide to do so, it is believed that he would win with ease. The city would likely go for him inasmuch as he has always had strong friends in the country districts.

Those whose names are favorably mentioned as probable delegates at large are Senators Daniel and Martin, and Governor Montague, with a wide field from which to select the fourth field.

Messrs. Jones, Ely, Glass, Swanson, Braxton, Flood and others are mentioned as the other delegates. Governor Montague, when asked concerning the party, said that he would support Mr. Meredith, and in regard to the candidacy of Mr. Braxton for second place, said:

"My views as to what the South should do, and the affairs of the Democracy were set forth at some length at the dinner to Mayor McCallan in New York some months ago.

"As regards Mr. Braxton and the nomination for the vice-presidency, if I am a delegate to the National Democratic convention, it will give me the greatest of pleasure to support him."
